

EARTHQUAKE SHAKES DOWN MANY HOUSES

Ciena, Italy Aug. 25—Many persons were injured, it is believed some of them fatally, when the town of Ciena was almost destroyed today by an earthquake.

The shock was felt throughout practically the entire province of Siena. Telegraph and telephone communication were interrupted and the full extent of the damage has not yet been learned.

Siena was thrown into a typical earthquake panic. Half-dressed men, women and children rushed through the streets carrying articles of household effects and crying and shouting. A great number of them fled from the city in their night clothing.

The shock was felt at 1:29 a.m. The zone of the severest tremor was within a radius of twenty damage was done at Buena Convento, where one man was killed and several houses demolished.

At Monteroni houses were shaken down and several persons hurt.

A shock was recorded at Plombino, on the coast, about 50 miles southwest of Siena, almost simultaneously with the quake in Siena. A second lighter shock followed but little damage was done.

In the earthquake zone people moved from their homes today. The population of the villages of San Lorenzo, Basso Convento, Monteroni and Plombino range from 1,000 to 4,000. Siena province has a total population of about 233,000. The city of Siena has a population of 300,000 and lies between Florence and Rome.

NEGRO ENTERS HOME OF REV. H. T. JOHNSON

Last night special officers responding to a call from the home of Rev. H. T. Johnson at 114 North Hull street, in Montgomery, found a negro hidden under the house. The negro had been seen around the house acting suspiciously for some time, and, becoming alarmed, members of the household sent for the officers.

The negro was taken into custody and charged with being a suspicious character. He gave his name as Will Hill.

RED MEN.

All who are interested in re-organizing Hichewen Tribe No. 82, I. O. R. M. please meet at the Dothan Guard's Barracks, in Sanders Building, corner Main and St. Andrews streets, Friday night, August 27th.

PAINFULLY INJURED BY FALLING LUMBER

This morning at about ten o'clock, Ed Still, a young white man working at the mill of the Enterprise Lumber Co., at Fountain, Fla., happened to the misfortune of having about three cars of lumber fall on his left leg. He and several other workmen were loading a car, when he saw the lumber that was stacked by the side of the car begin to fall. He knew it would be instant death if he didn't get out of the way, as the stack contained about three cars of lumber, so he dived under the car, all of his body getting under except his left leg, which received the weight of the whole load.

His leg was broken once and his foot bruised considerably, it taking nearly two hours to remove the lumber from it.

Mr. Still was brought to Dothan on the one o'clock train for medical attention and will probably be sent back to-night if he is able to stand the trip.

Mrs. Berry Garner returned to her home in Enterprise today after a visit to her sons here.

MAY BE APPOINTED AS STATE EXAMINER

Much of the political interest that remains after the adjournment of the extra session of the Legislature hangs on two things. One is the stirring campaign on the prohibition amendment to the constitution, and the other is the appointment of new State Examiners of Public Accounts and three jury commissioners in each of the sixty-seven counties of Alabama.

In a semi-official way it dropped out yesterday that Judge Charles E. McCall, Probate Judge of Choctaw County is to be the fortunate man for one of the examiners' jobs, and that he will be succeeded as Probate Judge by Hon. Wallace H. Lindsay, Representative from Choctaw County, in the Legislature. When the appointment will be made is not known, but it is understood that in a very few days the official announcement will be forthcoming from the Governor's office.

The first rumor was that Judge McCall was sure of the big plumb, and then speculation was rife as to who would be Probate Judge in Choctaw. It was not long before the position had been offered to Representative Lindsay. This was strengthened by the habit of the Governor of appointing members of the Legislature who in critical moments supported his measures.

Though Judge McCall was not seen by an Advertiser reporter, he is said to have been called to Montgomery a few days ago and offered the Examiner's office by Governor Comer. After a short conference it is understood that Judge McCall accepted.

The position pays $5 per day for the time engaged in work and the Examiner is always subject to the direction of the Governor. To this are added expenses. The list of Examiners is now swollen to five in all by action of the Legislature, and they will be traveling fast, it is said over the State. They are required to make special examination of the county books with reference to county funds upon request of the county boards, but a per diem of $7.50 per diem is to be charged the county.

Nothing definite is known of the prospective appointees for the other Examiner's job. He, too, will probably be named in the immediate future.

It is said that the Governor will hasten to appoint the 200 and more jury commissioners as required by the new jury law. The power of filling the steel jury boxes is placed in the hands of three such officers appointed by the Governor, and all jury selection is withdrawn from the county commissioners who have been previously doing the work.

Such appointments represent pretty good patronage, and will enhance the Governor's opportunity to build up a political machine in Alabama.

Mrs. C. J. Martin and children left today for Oriskany.

Mrs. Eric Golerstedt went to Troy this afternoon.

PURCHASES INTEREST IN LOCAL PLUMBING CONCERN

WHITE AND BLACK HAVE LIVELY SCRAP

Much interest was excited this morning in a small scrap, wherein a small white boy attempted to whip a little negro boy of about the same age, out on the sidewalk in front of the First National Bank. The white boy was trying to force the negro to drop his "iron taps" and upon the latter's refusal to do so, proceeded to force it upon him, throwing him to the sidewalk and hitting him on the head with a large sand stone. The sandstone taps soon overcame the negro of the wisdom of dropping the iron ones, and thus he quickly proceeded to do. But no sooner was he up from the ground than bricks began to fly in every direction, some towards the bank and some towards the bystanders. It seemed that the two opposing forces had opened fire again, the battle once more in full blast. Several ladies were passing just then and came very near being hurt by the flying stones, but fortunately no one was any worse from the scrap, except that the negro's head was bent a little. They were soon parted, one going to work, the other for the police.

Don't fail to see Jeptha's Daughter at the Criterion to-night.

Moonlight Bathing Music, Turtle Hunt and a ride on Beautiful St. Andrews Bay on the STEAMSHIP MANTEO

A chance to catch sea turtles, an opportunity to bathe in the moonlight silver waters of the Mexican Gulf, and a ride in the moonlight with music on the beautiful waters of old St. Andrews Bay on the Steamship Manteo, August thirty-first. The finest and most interesting excursion of all the season. No seasickness. The Manteo will not go out on the Gulf where the passengers might become seasick. The ride on the bay will be up North Bay, around East Bay, and over to the Pass, where the excursionists will have a chance to view the wonders of the Harvest Moon turning the Breakers of the Mexican Gulf into molten silver. Returning the Manteo will arrange to land passengers on the Gulf Beach, where the moonlight will afford an excellent opportunity to search for turtle eggs and turtles, and where the delightful sensation of bathing in transparent silvery waters of a glorious moon light night may be enjoyed. The Manteo will sail from the Railway Dock at Panama City at 8:00 o'clock p. m., Tuesday the 31st, and from St. Andrews (Ware's Wharf) at 8:30. Returning 11 p. m. Parties from all other Bay points are cordially invited to join the excursion at Panama City or St. Andrews.

DIXIE'S WAR QUEEN NOT AN AMAZON.

The Southern woman of the sixties was in no phase of her beautiful character anything like the warlike Amazon who carried a sword in one hand and a flag in the other. She was neither a Joan of Arc nor a Boudicca, and the Daughters of the Confederacy have done well to object to the design of the Italian sculptor in favor of the far more exquisite and suggestive ideal of the young Nashville girl, Miss Belle Kinner, who has happily solved an embarrassing problem.

As depicted by this gifted daughter of the Southland, the heroine of Confederate days was an altogether different type of womanhood.

She lacked none of the elements of true courage. But it was chiefly in the sacrifice which she made upon the altar of patriotism—in the ministrations of tender mercies which she performed in the hospitals for the wounded soldiers—in the anxious watches which she kept at lonely fire-sides in an area of country which was overrun by the invader—in the brave and hopeful smile of encouragement with which she cheered the hearts and lightened the snows of the half-starved boys in gray on the firing line of battle—in the countless proofs of her devotion to a cause which concentrated every pulse-beat of her affection—it was chiefly in things like these that she exhibited the true metal of her heroism and revealed the blue strain of her Spartan blood.

And note—if you please—how the real part which the Southern woman played in the iron days of the sixties is pictured in the design which has been adopted.

The central figure, of heroic size, is the goddess of fame. On her right she supports an exhausted Confederate soldier. At her left reclines an exquisitely carved figure—pride and grief pictured upon the angelic face. It represents the Southern woman of the sixties. And Fame is in the act of wreathing her brow with garlands, while she in turn extends to the dying hero the palm of victory which he clutches.

Without question, the Nashville girl has caught the true spirit of the proposed memorial.

She is only 22 years of age, it is said, but she inherits from the old South a mind and a temperament which enables her to grasp its message—to appreciate its civilization—to understand its high and noble type of womanhood.

And how much better it is that the monument which is to tell posterity of the fortitude—of the devotion—of the heroism which characterized the gentle war queen of Dixie should be the design not of the unsympathetic foreigner, but of the child upon whom the mantle has fallen—Atlanta Georgian.

with a scandalous perversion of his office. Hastily and superficially to proclaim the innocence of such parties, as if to preclude investigation by the proper authorities, is quite as objectionable.

At the hour when Mr. Jerome was publicly forestalling and discouraging inquiry into the Windsor Trust Company scandal, the directors of that institution were looking into the facts. When he was proclaiming the innocence of all but a few subordinates who might go wrong anywhere, the directors had the officers of the bank before them for examination. How could he have known so much in so short a time and why should he have assumed off hand to dispose of a matter of so much importance.

Judged by the methods which he has pursued for some years and which have proved highly disappointing to the people who placed him in office, Mr. Jerome has an incurable tendency to minimize the wrong doing of the rich and powerful. He has excused himself in the past by pleading lack of evidence. In this instance, he returns from a vacation, makes no effort to inform himself and renders a judgment, as has been customary in his case, exonerating those "higher up" but reflecting severely upon those who are of low estate.

There is no disposition here to hold the Windsor Trust Company to any responsibility which it has not itself assumed. It admits most of the allegations of the man who seems to have swindled. Its only defense thus far has been the statement that it acted as an agent. Why should the District Attorney hurriedly whitewash a concern which is willing to stand before the public with such an excuse?—N. Y. World.

THE BIGNESS OF THINGS

To the American politician we seem to be the greatest people because we have so many votes. The builder and contractor comes to the same conclusion because we want so many town houses and country places to contain us. Then there's the circumstance that there is a large balance of trade in our favor—it is in our favor, isn't it? At any rate it's large. Greatest we are in all things, and not least in size. Lafcadio Hearn's marvelous description of New York ("a city walked up to the sky and roaring like a sea") depends for much of its effectiveness on bigness in numbers and money. "In that block on the right there dwell one thousand souls; the tenants of the edifice facing it pay the annual rent of a million dollars. Seven millions scarcely covered the cost of those hulks overlooking the square beyond—and there are miles of such." The American is a bit proud that his railroads kill more persons than other peoples' railroads and in Bret Harte's "How Santa Claus Came to Sandy Bar" the Sierra Avalanche remarks, "with pensive local pride." An area as large as the state of Massachusetts is now under water.

You and I have a great deal of "pensive local pride", and that is as it should be. My complaint is that the pride is in our quantity of things, and their size individually—not in the things themselves. Thus the newspaper editor convinced that the United States is the only place fairly inhabitable, can with a clear conscience print accounts of grafting governors and itching congressmen. It pleases him and he thinks it may please his readers this thought that, rotten as old Europe is, we are more rotten when we apply ourselves to it.—From Lippincott's

BUT HE DIDN'T

Up in Massachusetts where they do many things strangely, a preacher borrowed four babies, not having one of his own and worked the slight of hand trick on the congregation and neighbors telling them that the quadruplets were his thereby earning much sympathy and some money, which helped matters. His wife helped him in the ruse, and a string of people came out from the city to see the four little babies. The preacher was fired. He might have resorted to many different methods to work up the sympathy of the people. He could have put his right hand in a cotton sheller or cotton gin, or he might have fed both hands into a planing mill and been left in a condition that would have called for sympathy, or he might have opposed the Comer administration and been hanged for life, but he did none of these things. He merely borrowed four babies and showed them around as his own and wore a perfectly horrible long face while he was at it.

Some years back a Wall street clerk made a fortune of something like $100,000 in a government bond deal, on an investment of a 2-cent postage stamp. His record has been beaten by a Spokane woman, Miss McNickle, who has won $10,000 in a government lottery in the Indian reservation without having invested so much as a postage stamp. The Spokane Chamber of Commerce deposited a fund with the postmaster to guarantee the postage on all letters addressed to the land agent. Mrs. McNickle forgot to stamp her letter, so it was stamped and forwarded under the guarantee fund. There were only forty-quarter sections to be drawn and Miss McNickle drew number No. 2, which gave her second pick of the allotment, worth the sum named. There were 100,000 applicants for the quarter section.

The advertised product is nearly always a product you can afford to buy.

So many people wanting jobs these days who are not prepared to start at the bottom.

And you just think of sixty miles of good road being built in Houston county, and it will go somewhere.

Three months from yesterday which is to say, November 25th will be the day and date that the amendment will be fought to a standstill.

Lincoln pennies have never been in much demand down this way. Our folks don't go wild over the old kind with the bad Indian head on them.

A string of wagons as long as from here to the light are coming into town with cotton, some bringing it from the gins farther away from town, but all bringing it here.

We need the paved streets, the water mains extended, and the many other things set out and provided for in that bond election, and in the course of time we are to get them all.

After Uncle Hank Waterson viewed the doings of the Alabama legislature from afar, he sat down and wrote of Mr. Fuller, and of his bill, as being the "Fullerlicker" bill, and so it got going.

Everybody comes to Dothan. Why, we wouldn't be at all surprised to see Leon Long with his little black valise full of dope and ten, drop in to see us some day on his rounds.

Dear Sir: In humanity's name can't so much of the cruelty to animals that meets ones gaze on the streets of Dothan be stopped? Only this morning I saw a mulatto hatched to a Standard Oil wagon and the collar had already rubbed a great raw place on his neck the size of a man's hand. Such treatment of poor helpless dumb animals is unthinkable and it there is no law there ought to be one to stop it.

SLEEP A SELF-SUGGESTION

The next point to bear in mind is that self-suggestion plays a great part in the production of sleep. Ordinarily we do not sleep by accident or haphazard. We resolve to sleep. We go through a variety of actions suggestive of a change from our normal waking condition. We undress, we place ourselves in a comfortable position, we close our eyes. We believe and expect that we are going to sleep, and the result is sleep. One of the great preventatives of sleep is the fear of not sleeping. The insomnia worries depends the mischief. Hence the sufferer should suggest to himself again and again: "If I sleep, well; if I don't sleep I will at least gain rest by keeping my mind calm and my body relaxed." In a word, our chances of getting sleep increase if we assume the external physical attitude which corresponds to sleep, if we relax every muscle and let it lay regularly, if we call up the imagination of a sleeping person, and talk and think sleep to ourselves repeating silently and in a quiet dreamy fashion such a formula as this: "There is no reason why I should not sleep. Therefore I can sleep. Therefore I will sleep. My mind is at peace. Sleep is coming. I am getting sleepy. I am about to sleep. I am asleep." —Dr. S. McComb, in Harper's Bazar.

THE HOME PAPER.

With all due modesty we believe the home paper is the most important institution in any town. It is the medium through which the town speaks to the outside world and is the means of communication between the people of the town and vicinity. Long ago, under inspiration, it was written, "No man liveth to himself," and this truth was never more apparent than it is today. No man can retire from activity and live. He must know what is going on about him, and the world must know what he is doing. The use of the newspaper is the best plan by which this is carried on.—Wil-mont (O.) Review.

And you just think of sixty miles of good road being built in Houston county, and it will go somewhere.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:
